

Uncover a wealth of information in a visit to your local museum....

Did you know Grangemouth was originally called Sealock? Or that during WWII, Inchyra Road was used as a runway?

A visit to Grangemouth Museum is essential if you are looking to find out more about the town, or about how industry has shaped Grangemouth's development.

Displays and object collections focus on Grangemouth as one of Scotland's earliest planned towns, from its origins as the east terminal port of the Forth & Clyde Canal, to its present international status as a centre for the petro-chemical industries.

Grangemouth Museum
Bo'ness Road
Grangemouth FK3 8AG

t: 01324 504699

www.falkirk.gov.uk/cultural

Open all year
Monday – Saturday 12.30pm-5.00pm

Free Admission

Please note: Grangemouth Museum is located on the 1st floor of Grangemouth Library accessible only via a flight of stairs.

Falkirk Council
Community Services